STYX

STYX - With more than 35 million albums sold worldwide and 16 Top 20 singles (12 Top 10 Singles), Styx has hosted more live performances in the past 10 years than all of the previous years of its career combined. These shows have included two highly coveted Super Bowl appearances along with Pollstar chart-topping tours with other rock legends including Def Leppard, Journey, Boston, REO Speedwagon and Bad Company (to name only a few), two more studio albums and no end in sight, STYX continues to conquer the planet, one venue at a time.

Spawned from a suburban Chicago basement in the early '70s, Styx would eventually transform into the virtual arena rock prototype by the late '70s and early '80s, due to a fondness for big rockers and soaring power ballads. The band has released a total of 15 albums which include some of their most popular hit songs such as "Lady" (#6, 1975), "Come Sail Away" (#8, 1977), "Babe" (#1, 1979), "The Best of Times" (#3, 1981), "Too Much Time On My Hands" (#9, 1981), and "Mr. Roboto" (#3, 1983). Other hits by the band include "Show Me the Way" (#3, 1990), "Don't Let It End" (#6, 1983) and "Renegade" (#16, 1978). Styx also is one of the few bands to have three Top 10 songs in three decades ('70s, '80s and '90s) and was the first band in history to release four consecutive triple-platinum albums.

A career-encompassing live album, Caught in the Act, was issued in 1984, before Styx went on hiatus, and the majority of its members pursued solo projects throughout the remainder of the decade. A re-recording of their early hit, "Lady" (titled "Lady '95"), for a Greatest Hits compilation, finally united Tommy Shaw with his former Styx bandmates, which led to a full-on reunion tour in 1996. The Styx reunion tour became a surprise sold-out success, resulting in the release of a live album/video, 1997's Return to Paradise, while a whole new generation of rock fans were introduced to the grandiose sounds of Styx via a humorous car ad which used the track "Mr. Roboto," as well as songs used in several TV shows including South Park and Freaks & Geeks.
